This software subscription solution has been optimized for self-hosting within the Amazon Web Services cloud hosting platform. This allows for the most economical and flexible way to achieve privacy and full access to data and applications for PixelPoint customers with advanced IT needs. Alternatively, Enterprise can also be self-hosted within any private data center, co-location data center or cloud hosting service.

We have minimized the learning curve typically experienced with complex enterprise management systems through the use of the familiar and common PixelPoint BackOffice user interface.
